

Cumberworth C.E (A) First School
Relationships Education,
Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education
(RSHE) Policy

Approved by Standards & Effectiveness Committee March 2021
Reviewed Summer term 2022

Our school vision

At Cumberworth C.E (A) First School we pride ourselves on putting the child and family at the heart of everything we do. We aim to uphold our Christian values (of love, kindness, friendship, self-control, respect and forgiveness) so that together we can enjoy our learning, enrich our lives and excel by making the most of our talents and gifts.

Legislation and statutory guidance

We are required to provide relationship education and health education to all pupils.

The policy has due regard to the following legislation and guidance:

- Section 80A of the Education Act 2002: as part of the Education Act 2002/Academies Act 2010 all schools must provide a balanced and broad-based curriculum which promotes the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils at the school and of society, whilst also preparing pupils for the opportunities, responsibilities and experiences of later life...
- Children and Social Work Act 2017.
- The Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019.
- Equality Act 2010 and the Public Sector Equality Duty 2011.
- The Equality Act 2010 and schools (DfE, 2014).
- Mental health and behaviour in school (DfE, 2018).
- Science programmes of study: Key Stages 1 and 2 (DfE, 2013).
- Keeping children safe in education – for schools and colleges (DfE, 2020).
- Promoting fundamental British values through SMSC (DfE, 2014).

Definitions

- RSHE: Relationships education, relationships and sex education and health education.
- Health education: Physical health and mental wellbeing.
- Relationships education: The physical, social, legal and emotional aspects of human relationships including friendships, family life and relationships with other children and adults.
- Sex education: There is no agreed definition in the new RSHE guidance. In this policy the definition of sex education is 'how a baby is conceived and born' (reproduction and birth).
- RSE: Relationships and sex education.
- PSHE: Personal, Social, Health and Economic (PSHE) education. The RSHE policy may link to, or be part of, a wider PSHE education policy.

Policy development

In developing our policy and curriculum we have given due regard to the Government's statutory guidance for RSHE issued under Section 80A of the Education Act 2002 and Section 403 of the Education Act 1996.

The three key stages of policy development:

INFORM	Share the facts about the new guidance, including the statutory content.
CONSULT	Gather stakeholder views
SUPPORT	Share the policy. Help parents complement the teaching in school.

The RSHE policy at Cumberworth C.E (A) First School has been developed following consultation with the school community. The process of policy development involved the following:

- Review of the current provision.
- DfE guidance and information about RSHE was shared with stakeholders.
- Knowledge of the local school context helped us to understand the needs and priorities of our school community.
- A draft policy was shared with stakeholders for comments. These comments were considered by the school.
- The policy was ratified (adopted) by the Governing Board.
- The policy was shared with parents and is available on the school website.

Statement of intent

This policy outlines the approach to relationships, sex and health education (RSHE). It is underpinned by the Kirklees Charter for RSHE (Appendix 1) and complements the vision/value/ethos of Cumberworth C.E (A) First School.

Relationships, sex, and health education is important because it:

- Prepares pupils for the opportunities, responsibilities, and experiences of adult life.
- Gives pupils the knowledge they need to make informed decisions about their health and well-being.
- Supports pupils' skills to recognise positive, healthy, and respectful relationships.
- Helps to safeguard pupils, so they can find and access help and support.
- Teaches pupils tolerance, the importance of equality, and respect for diversity.
- Develops pupils' self-respect and self-worth, confidence, and empathy.

All schools need to consider the obligations contained in the Equality Act 2010 and their responsibilities outlined in Public Sector Equality Duty Guidance for schools in England (EHRC, 2014).

Roles and responsibilities

The Governing Board

- Ensures that the school meets its statutory requirements in relation to relationships and sex education.
- Approves the RSHE policy.
- Holds the Head Teacher to account for the implementation of the policy (checking the RSHE curriculum is well-led and effectively managed).

The Head Teacher

- Oversees the development and implementation of the RSHE policy.
- Agrees the curriculum delivery model (where it will be taught, the time allocation and staffing).
- Ensures RSHE is resourced, staffed, and timetabled to enable the school to meet its legal obligations and offer high-quality provision to all pupils.
- Ensures staff are suitably trained to teach relationships and sex education.
- Monitors and evaluates the effectiveness of RSHE and supports teaching staff if required.
- Encourages parents to engage with the formation of the policy and know about the final policy.
- Supports requests from parents to excuse their child from sex education (including organising alternative education for any pupils withdrawn).
- Reports to the Governing Board on the implementation and effectiveness of the policy.
- Reviews the policy (on an annual basis).

All teachers of RSHE

- Know and act in accordance with the RSHE policy.
- Reflect the law (including the Equality Act 2010) as it applies to sex and relationships.
- Consider how their personal views and/or beliefs might impact on their teaching of RSHE.
- Monitor pupil progress in line with school policy.
- Work with the SENCO to identify and respond to the needs of pupils with SEND.
- Report any concerns about RSHE teaching to the Head Teacher.
- Report any safeguarding concerns or pupil disclosures to the designated safeguarding lead (DSL) in line with the school safeguarding policy.
- Respond professionally and appropriately to any parent who has withdrawn their child from sex education.
- Share any concerns they may have about teaching RSHE with the Head Teacher.

Staff do not have the right to opt out of teaching RSHE.

The RSHE curriculum

The RSHE curriculum has been organised in line with the statutory requirements outlined in

- Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex education (RSE) and Health Education statutory guidance (DfE,2019)
- DfE update DfE communication to schools on RSHE implementation (update, June 2020)

RHE Statutory Content Summary for Primary Schools. (There is no statutory content for sex education.)

Relationships Education (DfE 2019,para 62, page 20)	Health Education (DfE 2019, para 96, page 32)
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Families and people who care for me • Caring friendships • Respectful relationships • Online relationships • Being safe 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Internet safety and harms • Physical health and fitness • Healthy eating • Mental well-being • Drugs, alcohol and tobacco • Health and prevention • Basic first aid • Changing adolescent body (including puberty and menstruation)

Refer to Appendix 2 for the statutory content for each of the above units.

The content of the RSHE curriculum at Cumberworth C.E (A) First School is informed by:

- National guidance and evidence-based research about RSHE/PSHE education.
- Information about the law/ legal rights including the Equality Act 2010 and Public Sector Equality Duty.
- Relevant health and other data (both local and national).
- The views of stakeholders.
- Nationally recognised and/or quality assured resources (e.g. The PSHE Association, NSPCC, CEOP, Stonewall, MindEd). (Annex B Suggested Resources DfE, 2019)

We have adopted the PSHE Association: Programme of Study 2020 and adapted it where necessary to avoid duplication where topics are covered in subjects such as science, computing, R.E. This programme of study is a suggested DfE resource (Annex B Suggested Resources DfE, 2019). It supports schools to provide a comprehensive programme that integrates, but is not limited to, the statutory RSHE content. This broader PSHE education programme includes economic well-being and careers education. This programme of study will be published on the school website.

The content is well-matched to the needs of the pupils:

- It is age (developmentally) appropriate and is based on what pupils are likely to need to know (including any safeguarding considerations) and what they are likely to be able to understand.
- It is sequenced and progressively builds upon prior knowledge.
- It includes the acquisition of knowledge and understanding, the development of skills and respectful attitudes.
- It is inclusive, so it meets the needs of all pupils.

The content of the RSHE curriculum may need to be adapted or changed throughout the year to meet local/national priorities. Any parent, teacher or pupil is encouraged to offer feedback about the RSHE curriculum.

Sex Education

Sex education is not compulsory in primary schools from September 2020 (DfE, para 65/page 23), however, the DfE recommends that all primary schools should have a programme of sex education tailored to the age and the physical and emotional maturity of the pupils. It should ensure that both boys and girls are prepared for the changes that adolescence brings and – drawing on knowledge of the human cycle set out in national curriculum science - how a baby is conceived and born (DfE, para 67/page 23).

At Cumberworth C.E (A) First School:

- All pupils will be taught in national curriculum science: the main external parts of the human body; how the body changes as it grows (including puberty); the reproductive process in some plants and animals.
- All pupils will be taught the health education content as outlined in the RSHE guidance. The section on the changing adolescent body includes: key facts about puberty and the changing adolescent body particularly through from age 9 through to age 11, including physical and emotional changes; about menstrual well-being including the key facts about the menstrual cycle (DfE, page 35).
- All pupils will be taught about relationships education content as outlined in the RSHE guidance. This includes learning about caring relationships and different types of families (DfE, page 20). All teaching is sensitive and age appropriate in approach and content. Teaching will be fully integrated into programmes of study rather than delivered as a stand-alone unit or lesson (DfE, para 37/page 15). Teaching about diverse families (e.g. LGBT) is part of relationships education.

At Cumberworth C.E (A) First School we do not teach sex education beyond this.

The delivery of the RSHE curriculum:

- RSHE teaching will promote equality, challenge all forms of prejudice and discrimination and will emphasise the importance of safe, caring, healthy, positive and respectful relationships.
- Relationships, sex and health education (RSHE) will be taught within the personal, social, health and economic (PSHE) curriculum/programme and in other areas of the curriculum such as collective worship, themed days (e.g. internet safety day) and other curriculum areas (e.g. science, computing).
- Teaching will be inclusive, so it meets the needs of all pupils - particularly those with special education needs/disabilities, those from a range of faith backgrounds and LGBT pupils and/or their families. This means a teacher will refer to different viewpoints and beliefs on a range of RSHE issues. All pupils and their families need to feel included and the school recognises different types of families and structures of support for children. This is part of relationships education.
- Pupils will be given the opportunity to reflect on the values, beliefs and influences (such as from parents, peers, media, faith and culture) that may shape their own attitudes to relationships and sex, develop critical thinking skills and nurture their tolerance/respect for different views.
- All staff will have access to training to ensure they are familiar with the content and subject specific pedagogy of RSHE so they feel confident and competent to teach it effectively.
- Staff will be kept up to date about new guidance, support, and resources for RSHE.

Safeguarding: safe and effective practice

- RSHE will be delivered in a safe, supportive learning environment, so that young people feel able to express their views and beliefs, ask questions and know where to find help.
- Teachers are aware that effective RSHE, which brings an understanding of what is and what is not appropriate in a relationship, can lead to a disclosure of a child protection issue. Teachers must always refer to the designated safeguarding lead (DSL) if a disclosure is made.
- Pupils need basic knowledge about the privacy of their bodies and genitalia to support safeguarding. We have adopted a school-wide policy on the consistent use of correct terms for genitalia as part of safeguarding practice. This is not sex education.

In RSHE lessons:

- Teachers and pupils will agree ground rules so everyone is, and feels, safe in lessons.
- Teachers will agree with pupils the limits of confidentiality.
- Distancing techniques will be used so that pupils are not required or feel pressurised into talking about their personal circumstances.
- In a positive classroom environment, where children's natural curiosity is encouraged, teachers will answer questions sensitively, honestly and in a manner appropriate to a child's age and context. However, children may not see the boundaries between subjects (e.g. science, relationships and sex education) and this may lead to them raising questions in class that relate to both statutory and non-statutory content.

Engaging stakeholders

In developing our policy and curriculum we have given due regard to the Government's statutory guidance for RSHE issued under Section 80A of the Education Act 2002 and section 403 of the Education Act 1996. The views of stakeholders have been considered when developing the policy and content of RSHE.

The following documents have been shared with parents/carers:

DfE: Relationships education, relationships and sex education (RSE) and health education: FAQs

DfE: Relationships, sex and health education: guides for parents

The role of parents/carers in the development of children's understanding about relationships is vital. Parents /carers are the first teachers of their children. Our aim is to establish open communication and maintain positive relationships with all parents/carers so they are given every opportunity to inform and understand the purpose and content of RSHE. If parents/carers have questions or concerns about any aspect of the RSHE curriculum, they are encouraged to share these with the school. This can be verbally or in writing e.g. letter or email.

Faith and cultural perspectives on RSHE

Teaching RSHE effectively means considering the many faiths and cultures of Britain today and knowing about the law. As a school we will deliver RSHE in a non-judgmental way, providing a balanced approach that acknowledges the wealth of beliefs, views and opinions of our community and country. RSHE teaching will promote equality and challenge all forms of prejudice and discrimination. A diverse range of resources will be used so every child and family feels included, respected, and valued. Parents and carers are key partners in RSHE and are best placed to support their children to understand how their learning at school fits with their family's faith, beliefs, and values.

Schools with a religious character will teach according to their distinctive faith perspective (in addition to exploring different faiths) and the relevant laws in relation to relationships and sex.

The right to be excused from sex education

Science and relationships & health education are statutory at primary school from September 2020. Parents have the right to request that their child be withdrawn from some or all of sex education delivered as part of the RSHE programme (DfE para 45/page 17) and should contact the school's Headteacher to do so.

Parents are not able to withdraw their child from any aspect of relationships education or health education (which includes learning about the changing adolescent body, puberty, and menstruation) or any content delivered through the national curriculum science programme.

Monitoring the quality of provision for RSHE

The Head Teacher is responsible for monitoring the quality of teaching and learning (see roles and responsibilities). Provision for RSHE will be on the agenda for the Governing Body Standards & Effectiveness sub-committee.

Policy review

The Governing Body is responsible for approving this policy on an annual basis. Changes will be communicated to all staff and parents and will be approved by the Governing Body. The review should consider any changes to statutory guidance, feedback from pupils, parents or staff and the school context.

Appendix 1: Kirklees Charter for Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (RSHE)

Background

- We want all children and young people in Kirklees to have their wellbeing, safety and emotional/mental health enriched and supported by their experience at school.
- This Kirklees Charter sets out the values and principles that we believe underpin an effective RSHE curriculum.
- The charter was developed in partnership between the local authority, teachers in Kirklees and other groups including our local SACRE (Standing Advisory Council for Religious Education) and representatives from the health care system including Public Health.
- We invite schools to use this charter to inform and evaluate their RSHE provision and practice.

Our values and principles

1. RSHE should be delivered as part of a wider Personal, Social, Health and Economic education (PSHE ed) programme. The curriculum should be planned and timetabled across all key stages. RSHE needs to be given enough curriculum time to cover the breadth of issues in relationships, sex and health education - as outlined in the content pages of the statutory guidance Relationships education, relationships and sex education (RSE) and health education (DfE, 2019).
2. RSHE will be embedded within the whole school curriculum (e.g. aspects of relationships education could be covered in other subjects, assemblies and during special events/weeks such as anti-bullying week/health week/online safety week).
3. School will hold conversations (engagement activity) with a range of stakeholders including staff, children, governors and parents before drafting their RSHE policy. School leaders will decide how engagement can be best conducted to encourage and enable maximum participation.
4. School leaders will actively seek pupils' views about RSHE (what they want to know, the age at which they want to learn about specific content and their thoughts on how the subject should be delivered e.g. the curriculum model; the amount of RSHE time; resources; the use of external experts/visitors. Their views should be taken into account when monitoring the effectiveness of provision and the impact of the subject on their personal development.
5. School leaders will work in partnership with parents and carers, informing them in advance about what their children will be learning in RSHE. Their views should be considered when planning RSHE. Parents will be encouraged and supported to complement the teaching at home, in the same way that parents are asked to complement the teaching of other subjects.
6. School leaders are encouraged to work with local faith and other community groups, so they can be informed about, and complement, the RSHE curriculum in schools. This engagement will also help staff to understand a range of views and perspectives on RSHE.

7. Schools must develop an RSHE policy (including clear objectives and an overview of the content) which is shared with parents and is available on the school website. There is no requirement to write or share detailed lesson plans, although a school may choose to do this.
8. RSHE policy and planning will be informed by: national guidance and evidence-based research about PSHE ed; information about the law/legal rights including the Equality Act 2010; relevant health and other data (both local and national); nationally recognised/quality assured resources (e.g. PSHE Association, Barnardo's, NSPCC, Sex Education Forum, National Children Bureau, Stonewall, The Children's Society).
9. School leaders will decide the content of the RSHE curriculum, including when topics are taught. They will develop content that is age appropriate (or developmentally appropriate) based on what pupils are likely to need to know (including any safeguarding considerations) and what they are likely to be able to understand.
10. The RSHE curriculum will include the acquisition of knowledge and understanding, the development of skills and the development of respectful attitudes.
11. All teachers of RSHE should have access to high quality professional development (training) in RSHE.
12. RSHE will be delivered in a safe, supportive learning environment, so that young people feel able to express their views and ask questions.
13. RSHE will give a positive view of human sexuality with honest and medically accurate information, so that pupils can learn about their bodies and relationships in ways that are appropriate to their age and maturity.
14. RSHE teaching will promote equality and challenge all forms of prejudice and discrimination.
15. RSHE lessons will promote safe, caring, healthy, positive and respectful relationships.
16. RSHE lessons will encourage participation by using a variety of teaching approaches.
17. RSHE teaching will be inclusive so it meets the needs of all pupils, particularly those with special education needs/disabilities; those from a range of faith backgrounds and LGBT pupils. This means a teacher will refer to different viewpoints and beliefs on a range of RSHE issues.
18. Pupils will be given the opportunity to: reflect on the values, beliefs and influences (such as from parents, peers, media, faith and culture) that may shape their own attitudes to relationships and sex; develop critical thinking skills and nurture their tolerance/respect for different views
19. Information and resources used in RSHE should be up to date, based on best practice and subject to on-going evaluation.
20. Expert visitors can enhance and supplement the RSHE curriculum. They are a powerful and useful way to bring expertise, resources, and experience to RSHE. Schools will need to follow appropriate guidance (e.g. PSHE Association Selecting and working with visitors and speakers: guidance for schools) and/or their own guidance on the vetting and checking of any visitor before inviting them into school, in line with standard practice.

Appendix 2: The statutory content: relationships education and health education (DfE)

Families and people who care for me

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- That families are important for them growing up because they can give love, security, and stability.
- The characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives.
- That others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care.
- That stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up.
- That marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong.
- How to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed.

Caring friendships

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- How important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends.
- The characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences, and support with problems and difficulties.
- That healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded.
- That most friendships have ups and downs, but that these can often be worked through, so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened and that resorting to violence is never right.
- How to recognise who to trust and who not to trust.
- How to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable.
- How to manage conflict.
- How to manage different situations and how to seek help from others if needed.

Respectful relationships

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- The importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), make different choices, or have different preferences or beliefs.

- Which practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships.
- The conventions of courtesy and manners.
- The importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness.
- That in school and wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority.
- About the different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders to report bullying to an adult, and how to seek help.
- What a stereotype is, and how they can be unfair, negative, or destructive.
- The importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers, and adults.

Online relationships

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- That people sometimes behave differently online, including pretending to be someone they are not.
- That the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to-face relationships, including the importance of respect for others online, even when we are anonymous.
- The rules and principles for keeping safe online.
- How to recognise harmful content and contact online, and how to report these.
- How to critically consider their online friendships and sources of information.
- The risks associated with people they have never met.
- How information and data is shared and used online.

Being safe

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- What sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others – including in a digital context.
- About the concept of privacy and the implications of it for both children and adults.
- That it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe.
- That each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe physical, and other, contact.
- How to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online) who they do not know.
- How to recognise and report feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult.
- How to ask for advice or help for themselves and others, and to keep trying until they are heard
- How to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so.
- Where to seek advice, for example, from their family, their school and other sources.

Mental Wellbeing

By the end of primary school pupils will know:

- That mental wellbeing is a normal part of daily life, in the same way as physical health.
- That there is a normal range of emotions, e.g. happiness, sadness, anger, fear, surprise, and nervousness.
- The scale of emotions that humans experience in response to different experiences and situations.
- How to recognise and talk about their emotions, including having a varied vocabulary of words to use when talking about their own and others' feelings.
- How to judge whether what they are feeling and how they are behaving is appropriate and proportionate.
- The benefits of physical exercise, time outdoors, community participation, and voluntary and service-based activity on mental wellbeing and happiness.
- Simple self-care techniques, including the importance of rest, time spent with friends and family, and the benefits of hobbies and interests.
- How isolation and loneliness can affect children and that it is very important they discuss their feelings with an adult and seek support.
- That bullying (including cyberbullying) has a negative and often lasting impact on mental wellbeing.
- Where and how to seek support (including recognising the triggers for seeking support), extending to who in school they should speak to if they are worried about themselves or others.
- That it is common to experience mental ill health and, for the many people who do, the problems can be resolved if the right support is made available, especially if accessed early enough.

Internet safety and harms

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- That for most people, the internet is an integral part of life and has many benefits.
- About the benefits of rationing time spent online.
- The risks of excessive time spent on electronic devices.
- The impact of positive and negative content online on their own and others' mental and physical wellbeing.
- How to consider the effect of their online actions on others.
- How to recognise and display respectful behaviour online.
- The importance of keeping personal information private.
- Why social media, some computer games and online gaming, for example, are age restricted.
- That the internet can also be a negative place where online abuse, trolling, bullying and harassment can take place, which can have a negative impact on mental health.
- How to be a discerning consumer of information online, including understanding that information (inclusive of that from search engines) is ranked, selected, and targeted.
- Where and how to report concerns and get support with issues online.

Physical Health and Fitness

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- The mental and physical benefits of an active lifestyle.
- The importance of building regular exercise into daily and weekly routines and how to achieve this, for example by walking or cycling to school, a daily active mile, or other forms of regular, vigorous exercise.
- The risks associated with an inactive lifestyle, including obesity.
- How and when to seek support, including which adults to speak to in school if they are worried about their health.

Healthy eating

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- What constitutes a healthy diet, including an understanding of calories and other nutritional content.
- The principles of planning and preparing a range of healthy meals.
- The characteristics of a poor diet and risks associated with unhealthy eating, including obesity, and other behaviours, e.g. the impact of alcohol on diet or health.

Drugs alcohol and tobacco

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- The facts about legal and illegal harmful substances and associated risks, including smoking, alcohol use and drug-taking.

Health and prevention

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- How to recognise early signs of physical illness, such as weight loss or unexplained changes to the body.
- About safe and unsafe exposure to the sun, and how to reduce the risk of sun damage, including skin cancer.
- The importance of sufficient good-quality sleep for good health, and that a lack of sleep can affect weight, mood, and ability to learn.
- About dental health and the benefits of good oral hygiene and dental flossing, including regular check-ups at the dentist.
- About personal hygiene and germs including bacteria and viruses, how they are spread and treated, and the importance of hand washing.
- The facts and science relating to immunisation and vaccination.

Basic First Aid

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- How to make a clear and efficient call to emergency services, if necessary.
- Concepts of basic First Aid, for example dealing with common injuries, including head injuries.

Changing adolescent body.

By the end of primary school, pupils will know:

- Key facts about puberty and the changing adolescent body, particularly from age 9 through to age 11, including physical and emotional changes.
- About menstrual wellbeing and key facts relating to the menstrual cycle.
